

Clam Chowder for Winter

BY JESSIE MARIE DeBOTH

He who has not known the delight of steamed clams or oysters, dipped in the rich liquid after swimming in their own savory juices, has an enjoyable experience to anticipate. It used to be confined to the seashore, but now may be properly relished in most large cities, where the fresh bivalves are shipped and received in perfect condition. A long distance from the day of the canned oyster with dubious flavor. Our canned goods of today are marvelous products, but the oysters and clams in their shells are so readily shipped by sandwiches at the side and an appetizing array of relishes such as crisp radishes, choice olives, snappy pickles and tantalizing chutney. With a generous pot of fragrant coffee the party is sure to be a success.

At this season winter squash is a welcome vegetable. Until quite recently the big green Hubbard squash was the sole variety, and its size made it an almost hopeless investment for kitchenette cookery. Even when halved or quartered it was either too much in bulk or took too long to cook, especially for the woman who liked to prepare her own dinner after her day in the office. But now we have the amusing acorn squash, somewhat like the Hubbard, though not so richly yellow. It can be baked in the little top oven, which is indispensable in kitchenette use, and cooked whole or in half, leaving the other half for another meal later in the week. Wrap closely in parchment paper to keep moist. It is not hard to cut, like its big, solid relative, and a portion for one will take in less time than a large potato. Salt and pepper are its best friends, or the pulp may be scooped out when tender and mashed with a little cream.

It is an especially good accompaniment to serve with beef, such as a minute steak or nicely cooked beef balls. A small club steak with a browned potato, buttered squash and a goodly amount of hearts of celery makes an admirable meal from every standpoint. One or two boiled potatoes can be browned in the same heavy fry pan used for pan-broiling the meat. The outer stalks of celery will serve nicely as a braised or creamed vegetable for another meal.

SAVORY ROAST LAMB. Select a choice leg of lamb and be sure that all outer skin or any weathered particles are removed. It takes so little of these strong smelling edges to ruin the finest roast. Many people won't eat lamb because of some past experience with unpleasant tasting portions. Do not wash red meat unless really necessary, but wipe it carefully with a wet cloth after preliminary work with a sharp knife. Once the prepared leg in a deep dish or kettle of aluminum or enamel. Chop two onions, a clove of garlic, two carrots and a cup of celery quite fine, then cook slowly in quarter of a cup of butter for 10 minutes. While the vegetables are simmering boil a pint each of vinegar and water with a sprig of parsley, a crushed bay leaf and blade of mace, six peppercorns and half a teaspoon each of powdered thyme and summer savory for 10 minutes. Then add the chopped vegetables and when the mixture is cool pour all over the meat. Cover close and keep in the refrigerator or other cold place for several days, turning the leg and basting with the savory compound twice daily. Then drain well, wipe dry, spread with softened butter and dredge with flour. Roast with strong heat, 500 degrees, for the first 15 minutes, if an open pan be used, or 30 minutes in a covered roaster, then reduce heat to 350 degrees, allowing about 30 minutes to the pound. Strain the original liquor and use as a basis for the gravy, with a tablespoon of flour for each cup, blended first with an equal amount of fat from the roasting pan. Season the meat with salt after it is well browned. The resulting roast is well worth the time expended, being unusually tender and exceptionally fine flavored. As most of the labor is done a few days before serving it makes a good company dish, which will add to your laurels as a remarkable cook.

Instead of the inevitable green peas (good, of course, but devoid of novelty) why not use broccoli which is now in the market. Be sure it is fresh and of good quality, then wash thoroughly in cold water and drain. Separate the heavier stems from the flowerets and place in the bottom of the kettle with the more delicate pieces on top. Salt lightly and cook uncovered in boiling water until tender, but beware of a minute's overcooking. When just done it has a rich green color and splendid flavor, but these are easily lost by cooking too long, and the product becomes mushy and unattractive. Remove carefully to the hot serving dish. The stalks may be set aside for future salad service, making one cooking process answer for two meals. Do not plan to reheat it, however, as members of the cabbage family, of which this is the rich relation, do not take kindly to warming over. Broccoli makes a delightful salad, with either French, sour cream or mayonnaise dressing, and enjoys the association of chopped beet, hard-cooked egg or tomato quarters for contrast. The hot broccoli is best with plenty of butter, and a dash of lemon juice. If the butter is placed in the serving dish, the heat will melt it sufficiently, but if it is to be passed in a separate container it should be melted long enough before serving to let the salt and residue settle to the bottom, then the clear oil is poured into the hot bowl or small gravy boat. This, in public places, is known as drawn butter, always served with hot shell fish and sometimes with asparagus or cauliflower.

FRATERNITY MEN BEST
OTHERS AT SCHOLARSHIP

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(P)—The scholarship of fraternity men was called superior to the general scholarship of college men in a report to the annual meeting of the Inter-Fraternity conference today. Alvan E. Duer, chairman of the scholarship committee which for five years has compared the grades of fraternity and non-fraternity undergraduates of 125 colleges and universities, declared "the fraternity men's average is somewhat more than 1 per cent higher than the average of all men undergraduates, and almost 2 per cent higher than the average of non-fraternity men."

In each of the last five years, Duer said, the scholarship of fraternity men has shown improvement.

The Seven Sages with all their secrets of magic could never have made anything so fine as White Lily Flour. Its lightness and fluffiness bring thrilling success to your home baking every day. Modern science takes the place of magic in making White Lily Flour. It is milled from the finest winter wheat. It is milled under controlled weather conditions—air, temperature and moisture kept exactly right in the mill every day in the year by special weather-making machinery.

Only the most delicate portions of the wheat are used for White Lily Flour. It is sifted through hand-woven silk. It is tested every hour in the mill's laboratory-kitchen. That is why there's a difference in White Lily Flour—that shows in the wonderful cakes, biscuits, and pastries you bake with it. Today you can buy White Lily Flour for the same price that an ordinary flour cost a year ago. Your grocer has it in plain and self-rising.

NEW FAIR OFFICIALS NAMED BY ASHCRAFT

President Appoints Committee Heads for Year's Work.

New officers and committeemen of the Southeastern Fair Association have been named by Lee Ashcraft, president, according to an announcement issued Friday. The nominations have been confirmed by the Chamber of Commerce.

Following is a list of new appointments:

TERRORISM CHARGED IN POLISH ELECTIONS

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Terrorism and torture are cited in the German government's note of protest to the League of Nations council regarding charges of mistreatment of Germans in Poland during the recent Polish election campaign.

The text of the note lists names, dates and places of nine cases and asserts that there are only a few of "countless examples."

Members: C. Arthur Kitchings and John N. Armour, vice presidents; W. J. Davis, Jr., treasurer; Joseph W. Ray, director; Robert B. Troutman, attorney; B. S. Barker, corporate secretary; Oscar Mills, general manager; F. J. Paxon, chairman executive committee; Mel R. Wilkinson, chairman, and Ivan Allen, vice chairman, finance committee, and Alfred C. Newell, chairman of publicity.

PROMINENT NASHVILLE BANKER KILLS SELF

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 28.—(AP)—With a shoe lace drawn around his neck and held taut in his lifeless hands, the body of R. E. Donnell, president of the closed Liberty Bank and Trust Company, was found in a hotel room early today.

Search for Mr. Donnell, 63, had been made for several hours before it was learned that he had registered at the hotel. Repeated telephone calls to his room going unanswered, the door was opened and the fully dressed body was found on the bed. M. D. Johnson, assistant cashier of the bank, who with a hotel employee, entered the room, identified the body as Mr. Donnell.

An envelope bearing the words "Riley E. Donnell, Jr., From Daddy" and containing his watch and chain, was found in his vest pocket. The lace from his left shoe had been removed and tied around his neck over a handkerchief. Covers on the bed were undisturbed.

Since the bank closed the night of November 13, friends of the banker said he had worried almost ceaselessly in an effort to reopen it and as a result had been under a constant nervous strain.

He had registered at the hotel some time yesterday afternoon, but it was undetermined how long he had been there while the body was found early this morning.

On the night of November 13 Mr. Donnell announced that the bank, which had been closed since Nov. 10, would be reopening the next day. He said the "raging financial storm" climaxed by heavy withdrawals, was responsible for the decision to close.

Mr. Donnell was born on a farm near Gallatin, Tenn., and as a boy went to work in a bank, his first job being the sweeping out of the First National Bank of Gallatin at a salary of $5 a month. Later he became cashier, which position he held for six years.

Coming to Nashville as assistant cashier of the old First National bank, he organized the Commercial Valley bank, of which he was president until about 1911. He later became president of the State Bank and Trust Company. Three years ago he organized the Liberty Bank and Trust Company.

George Lucius Blossom, Macon, has been made a lieutenant colonel in the finance division; Edward W. P. Bond, Augusta, has been promoted to a captain in the quartermaster corps; William McDowell Berry, of Sparta, has been appointed to second lieutenant in the cavalry; James Hillyard King, Fort Oglethorpe, second lieutenant in the cavalry; Robert McCleure Moore, Dahlonega, second lieutenant in the infantry; Patrick Elihu Savannah, second lieutenant in the field artillery; Joseph Edward O'Brien, Savannah, second lieutenant in the field artillery; William Maxwell Searey, Jr., Thomasville, first lieutenant in the dental corps; Gevert Semken, Savannah, second lieutenant in the field artillery; Everard Ansley Wilcox, Augusta, captain in the medical corps; James Tobin, Augusta, second lieutenant in the cavalry; William Conley Henry, Athens, second lieutenant in the cavalry; and William Tanner Thompson, Milledgeville, second lieutenant in the infantry.

Warrant Officer Einar V. Sorensen, band leader in the regular army, is relieved from his present assignment at Fort Niagara, N. Y., and is to become leader of the Twenty-second infantry at Fort McPherson.

UNCLE SAM AIDS ALASKAN ORPHANS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—A place of their own has been found this year for Alaskan orphans and other homeless children too young for school.

One of the buildings at old Fort Gibson has been transformed into a "nursery" for these children, William John Cooper, commissioner of education, told Secretary of the Interior Wilbur today in his annual report.

Attendance at the territorial industrial schools will be limited to students of suitable age, while a matron and nurses care for their younger brothers and sisters.

Two nation-wide surveys of questions affecting the educational system of the United States and other problems besetting school organization in Alaska also were reviewed in the report.

Professional preparation of teachers and secondary education methods in the United States were described, along with steps to strengthen the Alaskan school system.

MILWAUKEE BANK LOOTED OF $25,000

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Invading the Layton Park State bank a second time in less than a year, six robbers with sawed-off shotguns and revolvers today obtained $25,000 in currency and securities.

Eight customers and nine employees were in the bank at the time. Outside the bank five of the men climbed into a large gray sedan, while the sixth entered a small coupe, in which Frank Schery was waiting for his wife, who had gone into the bank. The man ordered Schery to drive the car carefully, observing traffic rules. The gray sedan followed.

Half a mile from the bank Schery was ordered out of his machine and the robber drove on.

Last year on December 6 the bank was robbed of $33,000 in currency by five men, who escaped and were never apprehended.

LYLE INVESTIGATION DROPPED BY BENCH

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—(AP)—A promised inquiry into charges that Municipal Judge John H. Lyle meted out summary jail sentences to hoodlums without fair trial was dropped today by three criminal court judges, sitting en banc, who decided they were without power to investigate beyond the record of the case.

John R. McCabe, attorney for Dominick Brancato, was advised to take recourse to the supreme court in mandamus proceedings and Brancato was sent back to the Bridewell to serve the six months' term Judge Lyle assigned him for the first offense. Brancato was "sent up" by Judge Lyle after a brief hearing at which the hoodlum contended he was denied a continuance and was unrepresented by a lawyer.

PIEDMONT ROAD SITE FOR HOSPITAL NAMED

Petition for Permission To Erect New Institution Filed.

A petition for permission to erect the Jesse Parker Williams Hospital on a 13.3-acre plot on Piedmont road, between Montgomery Ferry road and Pelham road, was received Friday by the Fulton county commission and ordered to be advertised.

The hospital is to be built and operated with several millions of dollars left by Mrs. Williams, who lived both in Atlanta and Savannah. Philip Weltner is chairman of the board of trustees handling the hospital fund.

The hospital is to devote itself to treatment of women.

Virginia's "Bean Rain" Traced to Starlings

FAIRFAX, Va., Nov. 28.—(UP)—Showers of "beans," which some credulous and drowsy-stricken farmers thought might be manna from heaven poured today to be a purely natural phenomenon.

A skeptical farm agent, answering a call from a near-by village, found the ground covered with thousands upon thousands of brown, bean-like seeds. Investigation showed they were seeds of the sour gum.

The seeds are a favorite food of starlings. The birds stuff their craws with them, digest the pulpy covering, and then regurgitate mouthfuls of the polished seeds. Thus the rain of "beans."

Provision for distributing 575 meal tickets from the community kitchen to the needy was made at a joint meeting of the First Congregational church, the Radcliffe Memorial Presbyterian church and the St. Paul Episcopal church in the First Congregational church. Contributions of $11.50, sufficient to purchase 675 of the two-cent meal tickets, were collected.

NETTLETON JOINS CATERPILLAR CLUB

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Instead of holding a new junior transcontinental flight record, Gerald Nettleton, 20-year-old Toledo, (Ohio) aviator, was enrolled today as the youngest member of the famed "Caterpillar Club."

Nettleton made a 10,000 foot parachute drop to escape from a blinding rain and snowstorm which encompassed his plane near here yesterday as he was within less than an hour of finishing his transcontinental flight.

He drifted gently to earth near a ranch house as his abandoned plane crashed a mile away. Except for being rained out and extremely cold, Nettleton was unhurt. He made his way to a ranch house and topped off his adventure with a big Thanksgiving dinner.

A benefit new rally will be held at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Big Bethel church, with a special music program by the combined choir of the church. The public is invited.

LUPE VELEZ DENIES GARY COOPER FROTH

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Lupe Velez, Mexican film actress, said today "when and if I'm married to Gary Cooper, I'll sure tell the world about it." She made the comment in emphatically denying rumors she has wed the film cowboy.

"That wedding ring, oh, that's my mother's," the actress declared, when asked about the platinum band she wore on her wedding finger.

George Lucius Blossom, Macon, has been made a lieutenant colonel in the finance division; Edward W. P. Bond, Augusta, has been promoted to a captain in the quartermaster corps; William McDowell Berry, of Sparta, has been appointed to second lieutenant in the cavalry; James Hillyard King, Fort Oglethorpe, second lieutenant in the cavalry; Robert McCleure Moore, Dahlonega, second lieutenant in the infantry; Patrick Elihu Savannah, second lieutenant in the field artillery; Joseph Edward O'Brien, Savannah, second lieutenant in the field artillery; William Maxwell Searey, Jr., Thomasville, first lieutenant in the dental corps; Gevert Semken, Savannah, second lieutenant in the field artillery; Everard Ansley Wilcox, Augusta, captain in the medical corps; James Tobin, Augusta, second lieutenant in the cavalry; William Conley Henry, Athens, second lieutenant in the cavalry; and William Tanner Thompson, Milledgeville, second lieutenant in the infantry.

UNCLE SAM AIDS ALASKAN ORPHANS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—A place of their own has been found this year for Alaskan orphans and other homeless children too young for school.

One of the buildings at old Fort Gibson has been transformed into a "nursery" for these children, William John Cooper, commissioner of education, told Secretary of the Interior Wilbur today in his annual report.

Attendance at the territorial industrial schools will be limited to students of suitable age, while a matron and nurses care for their younger brothers and sisters.

Two nation-wide surveys of questions affecting the educational system of the United States and other problems besetting school organization in Alaska also were reviewed in the report.

Professional preparation of teachers and secondary education methods in the United States were described, along with steps to strengthen the Alaskan school system.

MILWAUKEE BANK LOOTED OF $25,000

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Invading the Layton Park State bank a second time in less than a year, six robbers with sawed-off shotguns and revolvers today obtained $25,000 in currency and securities.

Eight customers and nine employees were in the bank at the time. Outside the bank five of the men climbed into a large gray sedan, while the sixth entered a small coupe, in which Frank Schery was waiting for his wife, who had gone into the bank. The man ordered Schery to drive the car carefully, observing traffic rules. The gray sedan followed.

Half a mile from the bank Schery was ordered out of his machine and the robber drove on.

Last year on December 6 the bank was robbed of $33,000 in currency by five men, who escaped and were never apprehended.

LYLE INVESTIGATION DROPPED BY BENCH

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—(AP)—A promised inquiry into charges that Municipal Judge John H. Lyle meted out summary jail sentences to hoodlums without fair trial was dropped today by three criminal court judges, sitting en banc, who decided they were without power to investigate beyond the record of the case.

John R. McCabe, attorney for Dominick Brancato, was advised to take recourse to the supreme court in mandamus proceedings and Brancato was sent back to the Bridewell to serve the six months' term Judge Lyle assigned him for the first offense. Brancato was "sent up" by Judge Lyle after a brief hearing at which the hoodlum contended he was denied a continuance and was unrepresented by a lawyer.

MAKE COTTON KING AGAIN IS SLOGAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Reinstatement of the south to dominion of the world quality cotton market is the goal of a concerted effort for production of pedigreed cotton to be launched with the new season under joint auspices of national and state governments and cotton cooperatives.

C. O. Moser, of New Orleans, vice president of the American Cotton Co-operative Association, today outlined plans under which at least one center of pure seed production will be established in each state of the cotton belt next year.

Moser termed it the "most constructive step for cotton taken in several years," and gave much credit for it to the farm board.

The plan contemplates that in the seed production centers, growers will agree to plant only one variety of cotton. This will be encouraged by the co-operatives both through their membership and in marketing the cotton so each producer will be paid for the quality and quantity produced.

The fact that producers, in the past, for the most part, have failed to receive a premium on quality was designated by the cooperative association official as one of the contributing factors to its deterioration.

This would be the first time such a program has been applied to the "rain belt" under governmental auspices. Somewhat similar plans have been used in the western irrigated belt.

Deterioration of American cotton began with efforts to minimize boll weevil losses. Efforts were made to get early-maturing varieties.

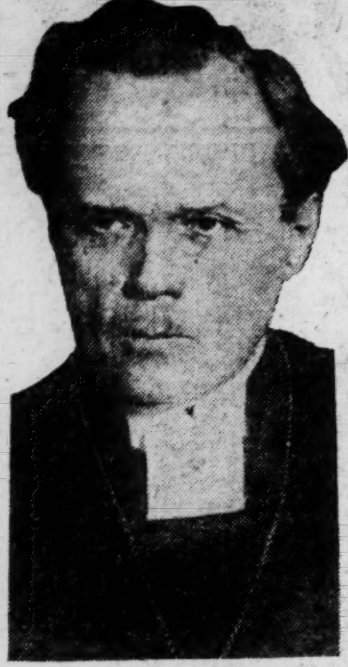

Kentuckian Flies Home After Holiday Visit

Hurrying back to his duties as president of the Kentucky Public Utilities Company at Louisville, after spending Thanksgiving with the "home folks" here, Louis Herrington boarded a plane at Candler field about daybreak Friday and reached his office in time to "open for business" at the usual hour.

Mr. Herrington, of 742 Frederick street, N. E., well known Atlanta businessman.

The trip was made in a Lycoming-powered Stinson cabin plane, piloted by Beeler Blevins, veteran Atlanta aviator, and while no records were endangered, fast time was made, it was stated. A stop was made at the Murfreesboro (Tenn.) field going and returning.

Nobel Winner

Dr. Nathan Soderblom, archbishop of Upsala and pro-chancellor of the University of Upsala since 1914, who has been awarded the Nobel peace prize for 1930. He is identified with work for international peace through a union of churches. Five years ago he was the principal organizer of the Christian Unity conference held at Stockholm. The Swedish primate was formally nominated for the prize nearly a year ago by a group of Swedish parliamentarians, and his name has been endorsed by similar groups in other countries since that time.—Associated Press photo.

DEKALB BIBLE GROUP WILL HEAR JENKINS

William F. Jenkins, presiding judge of the Georgia court of appeals, and a prominent Baptist layman, will address the DeKalb Association of Bible Classes at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning in the DeKalb courthouse, according to an announcement issued by W. C. Lovejoy, president of the association.

Composed of men's Bible classes from the Baptist, Methodist, Christian and Presbyterian Sunday schools of DeKalb county, the association meets only in those months in which a fifth Sunday occurs. Approximately 400 men are expected to attend the meeting Sunday morning.

STABBING VICTIMS' BODIES ARE FOUND

Police Without Clue to Reasons for Family's Assassination.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The bodies of the four members of a family, stabbed by an unknown slayer, were found in their farm house at Stanfordville, near here, today.

Police found their investigation blocked by the lack of a motive and material evidence. They could merely assume that James Husted Germond, member of the Grace and of the Stanfordville village church, his wife, daughter and son had been killed in the early evening of Wednesday. The bodies remained undiscovered until today when a creamery, desiring to know why Germond had not delivered his daily milk supply, sent an employee to investigate.

Drunk Goes to Jail But Can't Catch Rats

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 28.—(UP)—Doorman William Beville of the first precinct methodically searched Robert Pulley, 58, arrested for celebrating Thanksgiving too well Thursday night.

Doorman Beville's left hand entered Pulley's rear pocket. "Ouch!" yelled Doorman Beville. He snatched away his hand as though officers covered Pulley. Clinging to it was a rat trap.

"Serves you right," Pulley grinned delightedly. "Last time you had me in here for being drunk there were a lot of rats."

"Rats!" said Doorman Beville as he led Pulley to his cell, minus the trap.

Concert by Choir.

The Woman's Missionary Society of Calvary church, Circle No. 4, will sponsor a concert by the Big Bethel choir in the church auditorium at 8 o'clock Sunday afternoon, according to an announcement issued by Mrs. Arnold Gregory, chairman. The public is invited.

FORMER MISSISSIPPI OFFICIALS REINDICTED

Knox and Inman Again Named for Embezzling Funds.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Rush H. Knox, former attorney general of Mississippi, and Cecil Inman, a former state official, today were re-indicted by the Hinds county grand jury on charges of embezzling public funds while in office. Last week similar indictments against them were thrown out by the court on technical grounds.

Three new indictments against Mr. Knox, former attorney general of Mississippi, and Mr. Inman, former chairman of the state tax commission, were returned Wednesday and they were arraigned today and placed under $5,000 bond each.

Mr. Knox was reindicted on one

Mencken Having Picture Painted—Won't Buy It

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP)—H. L. Mencken is having his picture painted but he isn't going to pay for it.

The editor of the American Mercury was caught posing yesterday for O. Richard Reid, negro artist, but said he had no intention of buying it. It's for posterity—when his writings are forgotten, he decreed.

But the artist interrupted the interview. "Try to keep the mouth still for a few moments, Mr. Mencken," he asked, "remember I am not doing a motion picture."

Man Found Frozen.

GENEVA, N. Y., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Apparently frozen to death after he had collapsed in a field, the body of August Beington, 50, was found yesterday covered by a light fall of snow.

Single charge of embezzlement and on two indictments he is jointly charged with Mr. Inman with misuse of funds of the state of Mississippi.

PROGRAM OUTLINED TO SAVE WILD LIFE

Research, Reservations, Regulations, Threefold Need Seen in Report.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Three R's were chalked up on the blackboard today as essentials to saving America's vanishing game and wild life.

Research, reservation establishment and regulation of hunters were given in the annual report of Paul G. R. Long, chief of the bureau of biological survey, as the objectives.

During the past year food resources surveys of proposed migratory bird refuges were completed by the bureau on 180 units in 48 states, aggregating more than 3,700,000 acres. Land value

WOMAN IS DENIED DUKE ESTATE CLAIM

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Miss Helen Maher, Wall Street customers' clerk, lost a motion in state supreme court today in her suit for $313,000 against the estate of the late Benjamin N. Duke, tobacco millionaire. She said Duke promised to bequeath her the money and sought to examine the executors of the estate before trial.

ation surveys also were made on 40 of these units. The studies included the Cheyenne Bottoms, Kansas, refuge, authorized at the last session of congress.

DRYS MAY BACK LAW REFERENDUM

Leaders Work on Proposal To Ask Congress To Sound Opinion.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—A carefully worded proposal that the drys lend their support in the coming congress to a resolution for a national referendum on prohibition was under consideration today by a group of nationally prominent drys and will be further thrashed out at temperance meetings here and in New York.

Nothing definite has been done and the leaders were obviously divided today over the proposal, involving as it would an alliance with the wets to get the measure through congress.

The plan was first unfolded before a selected handful of drys, gathered privately in a hotel room here. As one of the conferees described it, the day prohibition forces would stand behind a constitutional amendment, formulated by the wets, calling for repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment, at least until the resolution had met the scrutiny of congress.

The temperance forces would seek assurance first, however, that the resolution would be considered by separate constitutional conventions elected by each of the 48 states, and that the wets would consider the decision of these groups at least temporarily final.

One anti-prohibitionist, Representative Andrew, republican, Massachusetts, has advanced an almost identical proposal. He said on Wednesday he would introduce such a resolution in the approaching session.

It was disclosed today that among those who met in private to listen to the plan were Patrick H. Callahan, of Louisville, Ky., secretary of the Association of Catholics Favoring Prohibition; Representative Ford, republican, New Jersey; Oliver Stewart, of Indianapolis, head of the flying squadron of America, and Dr. Arthur J. Barton, of Wilmington, N. C., head of the temperance committee of the Southern Baptist convention.

F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, and Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, were not in the capital for the conference and sent associates to represent them.

McBride was outspoken today in opposition to any such plan, saying: "It would be regarded as a betrayal of prohibition by the dry leaders. The drys would gain nothing by it, no one can speak for the wets, and the country overwhelmingly in favor of prohibition—as it surely would—would not be attacked upon the law and allow its better enforcement. Further, it would be a waste of money, and would put us on the defensive rather than the offensive."

Dr. Wilson, however, said he was not opposed to a straight referendum on the prohibition law. He said he doubted that the wets ever would allow such a vote if they could prevent it.

Policemen To Rebuild Toys for Poor Kiddies

At least two Atlanta policemen will supplant brass buttons and blue coats with the tugs of St. Nicholas during the Yuletide.

Superintendent Patrolmen J. H. Senn and P. H. Hill, Jr., said Friday that numerous downtown stores had promised to give them toys broken in shipment, and that they would be rebuilt and distributed among unfortunate kiddies at Christmas time. C. N. Davis, an attorney, was the first to make a cash donation after learning of their plans.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(UP)—President Hoover will send the Root World Court formula to the senate this winter, but without asking immediate action on it, he announced today.

Discussing the subject a few minutes earlier, Chairman William E. Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee, leading opponent of World Court adherence, said he would urge his committee to act on it as soon as it came up. Such action would bring it up to the floor for action if enough senators pressed for it.

Mr. Hoover's action increases the possibility of a legislative jam which might stop some vital appropriation bills and force a special session of the new seventy-second congress, but republican leaders are confident they can hold the situation in check.

"I am submitting the protocol of the World Court to the senate at the forthcoming session, and I should be brought up in the press of other business during the short session."

"Certainly it should not be made an instrument of obstruction in the senate," he said. "I am sure that both its friends and foes should agree upon this."

Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, republican floor-leader, announced he was opposed to bringing the court issue up for debate in the short session, and criticized the president for his action. Watson is an opponent of the World Court.

HOOVER NAMES WILLIAM DOAK LABOR SECRETARY of the American Federation of Labor. I know that Mr. Doak will represent labor in his public duties, and that he will reinforce the sympathetic attitude of the administration to the great problems of the wage earner."

"While President Hoover has publicly stated that he will oppose Mr. Doak's appointment because Mr. Doak's union is not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, he informs me that he holds Mr. Doak in the highest personal esteem."

"I do not feel," said Mr. Hoover in an interview, "that I can consent to the principle of debarment of the railway employees or other labor unions and associations or any labor organization from the federal service on the basis of the aspiration to attain to any office in the land."

He did not indicate when the appointment of John J. Davis, who is a senator Monday, and there is little indication that his qualifications for campaign expenditures will be seriously questioned. Doak, of course, cannot take office until the senate confirms him.

The president's action puts squarely upon Green and his federation the question of opposition.

Doak is a native of Wythe county, in western Virginia. He was educated in public schools and a business college. He married Emma Marie Crisler, of Ironton, Ohio, in 1908. He was Western branch of the Norfolk and Western railroad, vice president of the Brotherhood from 1916 to 1928. He is an Elk, a Mason and a golfer.

Senator George W. Norris, republican, Nebraska, who has led in criticism of some of Mr. Hoover's major appointments, including the rejection of nomination of John J. Parker as a supreme court justice, refused to comment himself. He said he would be visiting his home about Doak. It is regarded as likely that hearings will be held on Doak's nomination, especially if any protests are made against him.

SON OF VETERAN OF CONFEDERACY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The son of a Confederate soldier, who began his journey toward success by swinging on ice-coated steps of box-cars, is the new secretary of labor.

William N. Doak, national legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen for the last 14 years and an authority on labor economics, came up through the ranks to win high place in the nation's councils.

At 21 he joined the brotherhood and served as local chairman and legislative representative as well as president of his lodge for several years. He was elected president of the brotherhood in 1916. In 1927, he was elected assistant president and a year later the officers of editor and manager of the Railroad Trainman were combined with those of legislative representative.

Doak has been connected with all the recent wage movements for trainmen.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The son of a Confederate soldier, who began his journey toward success by swinging on ice-coated steps of box-cars, is the new secretary of labor.

William N. Doak, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, who Friday was named secretary of labor to succeed James J. Davis, who resigned to take a seat in the senate. Mr. Doak was selected by President Hoover for the important cabinet post over the protest of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

EDWARD CUNNINGHAM DIES AT CAPITAL DESK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Edward H. Cunningham, of Iowa, member of the federal reserve board, died at his desk this afternoon in the treasury department, a victim of heart attack.

Mr. Cunningham was the former member of the board. He received an interim appointment from President Coolidge on January 25, 1923, and was confirmed on January 22, 1924. His term would have expired on January 24, 1933.

His home was in Cresco, Iowa. He is survived by the widow, who lives here, and one son in Iowa. He was 61 years old.

J. E. B. STUART.

SEBING, Fla., Nov. 28.—(AP)—While on a business trip among strangers, J. E. B. Stuart, Jr., son of the dashing Confederate cavalry leader, "Jeb" Stuart, died at Istokpoga, near here, Wednesday night.

Death came from a stroke of apoplexy at the home of F. M. Dean, where Stuart was stopping. Although he had been showing that he was a Spanish War veteran, other information was lacking and his relation to the great Confederate general was unknown here until relatives were reached.

This was done through a telegram which Stuart had addressed to John M. Lynch, Long Beach, N. Y., asking for a loan, stating that he had found a land bargain.

Dean said Stuart had been at Istokpoga for about two weeks, seeking to purchase a tract of land. When he arrived at the Dean home Wednesday evening, Stuart appeared well, Dean said. He ate a hearty meal and went to bed about 10:30 p. m. Dean heard a faint man call. He entered the room and found Stuart dying. Dean told Stuart he would go for a physician.

But Stuart answered "It's too late; do what you can for me, but I will not last long."

J. E. B. Stuart, Jr., has communicated with undertakers here, stating that he was arranging to have his father buried in Arlington cemetery.

JOHN H. CARLISLE.
CLIFTON FORGE, Va., Nov. 28.—(AP)—John H. Carlisle, former general superintendent of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad and one-time assistant to the president in charge of traffic, died here today. He was born in Lexington, Ill., October 23, 1861. He was a railroad engineer, and a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Engineers and Firemen, died in Chicago & Alton in 1877. The funeral will be conducted here Sunday.

GEORGE WIGGLESWORTH.
BOSTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—George Wigglesworth, former president of the Harvard University, board of overseers and Boston financier, died in Bermuda yesterday, where he was visiting his son, Congressman Richard Wigglesworth.

He was 78 years old. He was president and trustee of the Amoskeag Company, a director of the Merrimack Manufacturing Company and a director of the Tampa Electric company.

WILLIS H. POST.

BATTLING CREEK, Ark., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Willis H. Post, 76, prominent until recently in affairs of the Postum Cereal company, died Thursday afternoon, following a paralytic stroke.

Mr. Post was long a director of the company and for a number of years the company's representative in Europe, with headquarters in London. He was born in Springfield, Ill.

The Sixty-Ninth Coast Artillery (anti-aircraft) regiment now encamped at Camp Jessup is one of the best equipped and most modern regiments in the army. Major General Frank R. McCoy, Fourth Corps area commander, said Friday afternoon after a full review of the unit on the Fort McPherson parade ground. General McCoy is shown above reviewing the regiment. He is the second from the left of the foreground group of four. On the extreme left is Lieut. Col. James B. Taylor, commander of the regiment, which received the general's praise. To the right of the general is Brig. General Harold B. Fiske, commanding the sixth coast artillery district, and on the extreme right is Brig. Gen. George H. Estes, the Fort McPherson commandant. Thrilling 10-Mile 'Drag Hunt' Is Staged by Society Riders

BY L. A. FARRELL.

Society, military and civilian, thrilled Friday afternoon to a fox hunt without a fox. A "drag" hunt was staged by the 61st Central Postal Directory.

The blatant and spurring notes of "Boots and Saddles" rang from the horn of Bugler Dugan and the bugles of the 61st. The hunt was a "drag" hunt, in which the riders followed the lead of the hounds and whips.

Colonel Fitzhugh Lee likewise joined in the chase, his fellow officers taunting that the odds were greatly against him to finish. But when the hunters reached the end of the trail and came to Mrs. McCoy's tea table, the hunt was over.

Colonel Lee was in the front rank and looked among the least extended in the whole group. The civilian contingent was represented by a number of young women and matrons while the older group followed in motor cars.

It was a cheerful party that gathered at the finish to be the guests of the hunt. The hunt was a "drag" hunt, in which the riders followed the lead of the hounds and whips.

General and Mrs. McCoy and other members of the riding squad joined Captain Wood and his wife in the hunt. "What ho, the fox," it was freely predicted that a corps master of the hounds will be appointed to the regular army curriculum.

THROWER THINKS U. S.
BOUND BY APPROVAL
The opinion that treasury and post-office officials are bound by congressional approval of the site bounded by Hunter, Forsyth and Spring streets for Atlanta's new postoffice was expressed Friday by M. L. Thrower, who represented property owners in the trade.

"Congress agreed to pay $880,000 for this property," Mr. Thrower said. "The property is entirely too cheap. Anybody who knows anything about values in Atlanta knows that the $880,000 price is 20 per cent under today's real estate market."

Mr. Thrower declined to venture any opinion as to what steps owners will take to resist condemnation proceedings when brought, as announced in Washington by United States Attorney Hager.

Mr. Hager is scheduled to reach the city some time today.

PEACE OFFICERS PLAN STATE CONVENTION

MACON, Ga., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The executive committee of the Georgia Sheriffs' and Peace Officers' Association, meeting in the city hall auditorium Friday, discussed plans for the first meeting of the association in Macon the first week in next June and decided to request a hearing with Governor-elect Russell to consider several proposed legislative measures before the convention of the legislature.

Colonel Ben T. Watkins, chief of Macon police and president of the association, said, Colonel Watkins explained that his organization and the county officers' association will meet here at the same time. It will be arranged for both groups to meet during the convention of the State Bar Association so there will not be a court session in Georgia at the time.

Several items of legislation to be sponsored by the association, including the establishment of a state criminal identification bureau and the adoption of a state traffic code, were considered by the committee. The officers made plans to get out letters to senators and representatives elect urging the passage of laws embodying these reforms.

COUNSEL, WITNESS CLASH IN MOSCOW

who testified first, was again first today's program.

Krilenko, only an inch or two above five feet tall, dominated the huge courtroom despite his diminutive stature. His dynamic personality and clear incisive voice together with his tiger-like quick mind made him a dominant figure and a dangerous antagonist in the game of wits. He said he intended to find out things the eight had withheld in their detailed confessions, although many present wondered what they could be. Ramzin, it was recalled, spoke for seven hours in confessing apparently everything he could think of, and the others confessed in detail.

The public, knowing Krilenko's strength and his high intelligence, waited for the climax of the drama as excitedly as the ancients awaited the gladiatorial combats.

Krilenko had talked with Ramzin for some moments when the professor scored his first victory in a passage of arms, so to speak, in the duel.

Ramzin had explained that he and the other specialists believed that engineers, who rule in technique, also should rule the nation.

"In what," queried Krilenko, "did you base this strange belief?"

"Upon Ballo," the professor responded quickly.

The prosecutor was clearly stumped. It appeared he had never heard of this writer, who elaborated the theory of engineers as modern rulers.

It was nearly midnight when the riders ended the long and grueling hunt which had led them over a course estimated at upwards of ten miles, but the dogs still were barking wildly and the hunters' eyes still keen for their game.

It was a cheerful party that gathered at the finish to be the guests of the hunt. The hunt was a "drag" hunt, in which the riders followed the lead of the hounds and whips.

General and Mrs. McCoy and other members of the riding squad joined Captain Wood and his wife in the hunt. "What ho, the fox," it was freely predicted that a corps master of the hounds will be appointed to the regular army curriculum.

in a reasonable time," he said, shortly after his return to Atlanta.

THROWER THINKS U. S.
BOUND BY APPROVAL
The opinion that treasury and post-office officials are bound by congressional approval of the site bounded by Hunter, Forsyth and Spring streets for Atlanta's new postoffice was expressed Friday by M. L. Thrower, who represented property owners in the trade.

"Congress agreed to pay $880,000 for this property," Mr. Thrower said. "The property is entirely too cheap. Anybody who knows anything about values in Atlanta knows that the $880,000 price is 20 per cent under today's real estate market."

Mr. Thrower declined to venture any opinion as to what steps owners will take to resist condemnation proceedings when brought, as announced in Washington by United States Attorney Hager.

Mr. Hager is scheduled to reach the city some time today.

$6,500,000 for Home.
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The James Gordon Bennett Memorial home for New York journalists will receive ultimately more than $6,500,000 from the estate of the late publisher by virtue of increases shown in two accountings filed in surrogate's court.

Sons Join Parents On 75th Anniversary

PULASKI, N. Y., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. William Morton celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary today surrounded by their three sons—Dennis, 73; Alonzo, 70; and William, 65.

The seventy-fifth anniversary of their marriage happened to fall on the day after Thanksgiving, but the Morton family marked back in 1855 Thanksgiving wasn't a national holiday. It didn't become one until President Lincoln decreed it at the close of the Civil War.

Mr. Morton is 92 and his wife is 90. Morton used to be a sailor on Great Lakes vessels.

BRITAIN MOVES TO AVERT STRIKE

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The government tonight made a dramatic intervention in the dispute between miners and coal owners which threatened a great coal strike Monday when the new mines act comes into force.

Representatives of the miners and owners saw the president of the board of trade and the secretary for mines tonight and as a result the following telegram was dispatched by the government:

"To Owners: Hope you will arrange to meet workmen and conclude temporary arrangements to continue work pending further miners' federation conference next week. Am advising workmen to approach you."

"To Workmen: Urge you to meet employers and endeavor to arrange to work on Monday."

In view of the development the miners' federation sent the following telegram to district associations immediately concerned in the dispute:

"Advise you to approach owners immediately and endeavor to make temporary arrangements to work seven and one-half hours on best terms available for both groups to meet until after a further conference meeting next Thursday."

These details might not impress an American court room crowd used to figures into the millions, but the Russian could hardly believe that such luxury was possible.

The prisoners, under a cross-examination, admitted they had only the haziest notion of what they expected would follow if their plot to overthrow the soviet government had succeeded. It appeared there had been serious differences of opinion among the conspirators here and abroad.

Victor Larichev, one of the defendants, declared when he visited western Europe and talked with the "white Russian" emigres he realized how "hungry for power these shades" were.

The identities of the French agents hitherto designated by their initials probably will not be disclosed.

The testimony spread on the court record in the past three days has amounted to a confession of organized domestic vandalism probably unprecedented in date, including the net debt over from 1920. The county expects to receive, in addition to other revenues, more than $3,580,000 on the 1920-21 receipts. The net deficit was $4,600,000. The net deficit was caused principally by a heavy program of construction several years ago, and in an effort to reduce the deficit and put the county's finances on the proper side of the ledger, the board has abandoned paying work except for virtually needed improvements and has adopted other economies. The county has no bonded debt.

Commissioner Innan made an effort late in 1929 to obtain a salary reduction for 1930, but was voted down. During the last two years, salary reduction was discussed at various times, but nothing definite was accomplished. At one time an effort was made to reduce the number of sheriff's deputies and bailiffs, but for various reasons this was not done.

Lowry and the board, at which the sheriff said that a cut in his force would seriously hamper his office, nothing was done.

AMERICANS DETAINED.
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The department of communications announced today that two American airplane pilots, one of whose names was given as "Shutt," had been detained at San Luis Potosi for taking off from Valmundo field without permits. The pilots, both civilians, were en route to the United States with two plane.

Zogu at Ceremony.

TRIANA, Albania, Nov. 28.—(AP)—King Zogu with members of his cabinet and the diplomatic corps today attended the dedication of the American legation, the first building specially constructed here as a foreign legation. Herman Bernstein is minister in charge.

U. S. 'MEDDLING' IN COTTON HIT

New Orleans Market Leader Says "Hands Off" Policy Needed.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 28.—(AP)—A governmental policy of "hands off" in the cotton market would bring relief to the present cotton situation, the board of directors of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange said today in its annual report.

"The instant need," the board's report said, "is the installation of confidence, which can best be secured by removal of obstacles which have in a manner assisted in bringing about existing conditions."

"Naturally, individual speculators are averse to competing with the government, and what with the constant interference by congress and the operations of the farm board, the life of speculation and investment has been more or less stifled."

"Private initiative, which successfully should the monster crops of 1925 and 1926, and even far more difficult situations, can do the same with the present situation, provided the government affords relief by amendment of the farm board law, or some assurance of 'hands off.'"

The board endorsed co-operative farm marketing, as being "fair, competitive trade method."

The report showed a falling off of gross handlings of the port of New Orleans from 2,202,912 in 1929 to 1,956,620 in 1930. Gross handlings increased, the board reported, from 725,233 in 1929 to 1,140,968 in 1930. While spot business stood at 1,350,000 bales in 1930, against 1,400,000 in 1929.

"The decrease in gross handling," the report said, "was due mainly to falling off in through shipments. Texas points en route to southern mills via New Orleans, is more apparent than not behind clouds. There is the trend of our local business, which is expressed by the press handlings, shows a hand-ump gain."

following statement: "This is a violation of the principle of the public's business being transacted in public. The county net debt was $771,000 at the end of 1929, and it is expected that the net debt will be increased at the end of 1930."

The county's current deficit, largely caused by the usual anticipation of tax revenue in order to obtain operating capital, is more than $3,000,000 on the 1930-21 receipts. The net deficit was $4,600,000. The net deficit was caused principally by a heavy program of construction several years

The BEST KIND of PHILANTHROPY

The best kind of philanthropy is the kind which makes philanthropy unnecessary.

This is the kind that puts money into circulation, stimulates business, creates jobs, and puts people into those jobs.

Such philanthropy begins at home---through the resumption of normal buying for normal needs on the part of everybody whose income remains steady.

People don't want charity. They want jobs.

You can make it possible for them to get these jobs---by resuming your normal buying for your personal and household needs. Steady buying steadies business. Steady business means steadier jobs and more of them.

Christmas is only 25 days away. Start your Christmas shopping now. It will help to put many people back to work right away.

Come on Atlanta! Let's Go!

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

POPULAR BELLE FROM NATIONAL CAPITAL TO VISIT HERE

Miss Ruden Arrives Dec. 5
To Be Guest of Misses Yundt

Among the important visitors scheduled to spend the early part of December in Atlanta is Miss Mary Ruden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Ruden, of Washington, D. C. Miss Ruden arrives Friday, December 5, to be the guest of her cousins, Misses Marion and Lucy Yundt, at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Yundt, on Seventeenth street. Miss Ruden is an unusually beautiful young girl of the blonde type of loveliness and possesses a personality of appealing charm and magnetism. She enjoys wide popularity in the national capital, where last winter she made her debut at a brilliant ball given by her parents at an exclusive Washington hostelry. Miss Ruden is a graduate of the fashionable Holton Arms school, where her charm and winsome manner made her a favorite with her classmates and faculty members.

A warm welcome will be accorded Miss Ruden by a host of prominent Atlantans who are friends of the young belle's mother, who was formerly Miss Laura Perdue Johnson, of this city, and who occupied an important position in Atlanta's social realm during her young ladyhood. Miss Ruden is a member of leading families in the south, her paternal great uncle being the late John A. Perdue, of this city. Among those who will entertain in her honor during her visit here are her cousins, Mrs. Yundt, Mrs. John A. Boykin, Mrs. E. F. Yancey, Mrs. Robert Quin, Mrs. Duncan Owens and Miss Julian Boykin.

Misses Yundt will keep open house at their home on Seventeenth street next Friday evening in compliment to their guest and Thursday, December 11, Miss Julian Boykin will give a tea at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Boykin, at their home on Myrtle street. Other parties to be given for Miss Ruden will be announced later.

Miss Forsythe
Honored By Miss Woodside.

Miss Virginia Forsythe, of Birmingham, Ala., was honored at a tea given yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club by Miss Margaret Woodside, whom she is visiting, and 100 members of the younger set of society were invited to meet the honor guest.

The ballroom was decorated with autumn leaves and varicolored chrysanthemums, and Miss Woodside and her guest were assisted in receiving by Mrs. John J. Woodside, Jr., and they stood before an artistic arrangement of leaves, ferns and flowers.

Among those invited were: Misses Florrie Atkins, Anne Alston, Mary Blum, Leon Brooks, Frances Clarke, Mary Collier, Eleanor Chesire, Rena Candler, Gene Davis, Marion Smith, Lucia Smith, Elizabeth Sheldahl, Mabel Shugart, Peggy Smith, Joyce Smith, Laura Troutman, Mary Thiesen, Rosemary Townley, Frances Weinman, Dora Smith, Caroline Duncan, Kate Fleming, Miriam Fleming, Margaret Fitch, Juanita Gresham, Harriet Grant, Mary Cobb Hume, Margaret Huffman, Elsie Dulles, Elizabeth Ford, Elizabeth Whitton, Frances North, Mildred Whiteside, Virginia Holivson, K. Memorial Association Holds Meeting.

Plans for assisting in designating unmarked graves of Confederate soldiers at Spotsylvania Courthouse, Va., were considered by the Atlanta Ladies' Memorial Association at a meeting held yesterday at the home of the president, Mrs. William A. Wright, on Fifteenth street.

Contributions were made for this work in view of a letter received by the association from Mrs. C. R. Andrews, president of the Spotsylvania Confederate Memorial Association requesting assistance of the local organization in marking the graves. Mrs. Wright is president of the Georgia Confederate Southern Memorial Association.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

A DREADFUL NIGHT.
BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Pity the trapped; their fate is plain: Terrible fear and horrible pain.—Jerry Muskrat.

Down the Laughing Brook below the Smiling Pool, a dreadful thing had happened. A young Muskrat, one of Jerry Muskrat's children, heedless of headstrong, had started to climb out of the water on a log that lay partly in the water. There he had been a snap, something had grabbed him by the fore legs, hurting terribly, and now was holding him prisoner. He had stepped in a steel trap.

At first he pulled with all his strength, pulled and pulled. It hurt terribly, but how else could he get away? Time and again he plunged from that log into the water, but in vain. It was well for him that the water was very shallow there. The boy who had set that trap was not a good trapper. In fact, he never had sets traps before. He had set that trap too high on the log. Had he been an old trapper he would have placed that trap so that when a Muskrat stepped in it and sprung it, the little animal would at once plunge into deep water and there drown.

But this trap was set where the water was not deep enough for this purpose. All the young Muskrat could do was to float and splash about it and finally crawl back up on the log to which the trap was fastened by a chain.

Sobbing under his breath he gnawed at that chain and gnawed at the trap. He knew not what to make of it when he found that his teeth, strong as sharp as they were, made not the slightest impression. This frightened him all the more. Here was something that try as he might he couldn't fight. The thing wouldn't fight back, but it did hold on. It held on as if it meant never to let go.

"It must be a trap. It must be one of those traps I was warned about," sobbed the young Muskrat. "I didn't suppose anything could hold on so. I didn't suppose that anything could hurt so. What shall I do? What shall I do? What shall I do?"

There being no one there to answer that question, the young Muskrat was no wiser than before. His legs were swollen around those cruel fangs where they bit into the flesh. It ached as no hurt he ever had had before had ever ached. But even worse was the terrible fear that gripped him. What was to become of him? Would he have to stay there until he starved to death? What if an enemy should come along and find him held fast there? At this thought he began struggling again and

LEAGUE'S ECONOMIC CONFERENCE CLOSES

GENEVA, Nov. 28.—(P)—The second conference of the League of Nations for concerted economic action of member nations closed today. Delegates were frank in their admission that the results were not remarkable.

Chairman H. Collin, of Holland, summarizing the work in which representatives of 26 states participated, declared that the only ray of hope surviving the conference was in the promise of the governments to tariff reduction by means of bilateral negotiations.

"The economic conference of 1927 agreed that the time had come to halt rising tariff walls and start a movement in the other direction," said the chairman in closing the 12-day sessions this forenoon. "But after three years tariff conditions in general are just as bad as ever."

"Everybody has agreed upon the necessity of reduction but nobody has done anything to live up to his belief. We have now chosen to direct our efforts for tariff reduction along bilateral lines. The responsibility of countries which made this decision is a grave one. If this effort fails it will be disastrous to the whole of Europe because the few remaining free trade countries will turn protectionist."

"The disaster will be not so much in losing these free markets but rather in the repercussions which will follow throughout Europe. The tariff passions which have been held in check will then be turned loose and the result will be economic warfare all over the world."

The work of the conference is summarized in a report, signed by all participants, which contains almost entirely expressions of hope for various reforms in the near future.

TARDIEU'S MARGIN OF VICTORY SLIM

THE GUMPS—NOT A CHANCE

The Other Bullet

By Nancy Barr Maity

SYNOPSIS

Peter Piper, newspaperman, on vacation with his wife, Barbara, was sitting on the porch of a country hotel kept by old Mr. and Mrs. Carter in the old gold-mining district of California in the Sierras, when a Mrs. Cook hurried up breathlessly, she found a man named Mortimer shot to death in the office of a ranch a mile and a half distant. She must hurry back, she said, because no one else was there except a ranch hand and Mrs. Everett, adding, "I reckon she's the one that shot him." Hearing an exclusive story for the Herald, Peter hurried off, taking Mrs. Cook and Carter with him and telling Mrs. Carter to send the constable.

Mrs. Cook told Peter that Everett, a construction engineer working on an irrigation dam project, did not get home more than once a month and had engaged Mortimer as ranch manager. When they reached the ranch house, Mrs. Cook aroused Peter's suspicions by saying she did not want to go in. He found that the manager had been shot twice, once in the neck through the jugular vein, also through the lungs. Peter replaced the two .45 caliber shells in the floor exactly where he had found them. At the ranch house, he heard Julia, a Danish sheep herder, accusing Mrs. Everett of having had a gun in her hand. This pretty, modestly dressed woman, in the early thirties, was strikingly unlike the rancher's wife Peter had pictured as he approached the house. She denied Julia's story until Peter went to a row of book cases and found a Colt automatic .45, with two chambers empty, behind several books which had been placed hastily upside down. "I killed him," she admitted. "But before I did I shot him twice."

Peter was trying to get her to talk further when her husband, Max, appeared suddenly. Aline told her husband that her sister Marjorie had left the ranch. Just then Bill Simpson, who combined the duties of country clerk, auditor, recorder, Peter. Soon Aline told him that she shot Mortimer because he had made love to Marjorie. Not knowing that she was married, Peter had promised to marry her, and then declared he did not intend to keep his promise. Not satisfied, Mortimer, who had been the husband who said he had come home unexpectedly because he was waiting for materials to arrive. He refused to explain his belated arrival home from the 3:30 train. She said he dropped the bullet at a Danish sheepherder's camp to get some wine to celebrate his homecoming. Simpson suggested that Max might have been jealous of his wife. Then Mortimer suddenly on Peter and asked, "Where do you come in on this?"

INSTALLMENT VI.

Again Max turned to Aline. He was questioning her with his eyes, imploring her to give him some sign. Aline's head jerked upward. "Oh, no," she said like one startled out of a dream. "He didn't kill him. I did. Julia saw me with the gun."

"Aline!" The single word was a cry of agony.

The sheriff's eyes gleamed briefly, then fastened on the group by the table.

"So that's the way it was. Why did you kill him, Miss Everett?" The drawing voice was cold as the slow trickle of ice water.

"I did it—for my sister," Aline stared straight before her. Her words came slowly, with pauses, yet not haltingly. They fell like the footsteps of one who forces himself to walk on, when he is very tired, because a certain distance must be covered before he can rest.

"My sister Marjorie—has been staying with me—for several months. The pale eyes of the sheriff traveled swiftly from one face to another. They were like narrow searchlights, Peter thought, picking out each object with pitiless intensity.

"Is she here now?" he asked.

"No," she left today. She left because—she told me—that Mr. Mortimer had made love to her. He said that they would be married after—afterwards—that it wouldn't make any difference. Then—today—he told her he never expected her to take his promise seriously—that he thought she knew—that is what men always say. I suppose I went out of my head with hate of the man who coaxed that that to my sister. So I took my husband's gun—and shot him."

"No, I wouldn't say you were crazy, Miss Everett," the sheriff's eyes were like the gleaming points of icicles. "And where were you all this time, Mr. Everett? How come you weren't here?"

"Again the words cracked out with explosive quickness.

Max Everett winced his eyes from his wife's face and sank heavily into a chair.

"My work was at a standstill, waiting for some machinery due from the east, so I came home. Everett's mind crept back, through infinite dis-ance, to the sunshine of the morning, when he had seized with light-hearted eagerness on the unexpected holiday.

"All right. What then?" Again the sheriff's voice was very gentle, and he got off the train at Hangtown, and walked out.

"The train gets in at three-fifty. You should have been home by five," Simpson suggested.

"I didn't come straight home. I walked up into the hills into a sheep herder's cabin in the canyon—the one they call Wild Hog Glory."

"Find him home?"

"No, as a matter of fact, I didn't."

"What did you want to go up there for?"

"Well, I—For the first time," Max hesitated. "I—I just went," he said confusedly.

"What for?"

"The narrow searchlights of Simpson's eyes played full on Everett's face. The words were less a question than a command.

"Can what I say be private between us?"

"That depends on what it is. I ain't makin' no promises. But you'd better tell what you went there for, and make it reasonable, because so far your alibi isn't worth a cocked hat. I don't know yet that you ain't an accessory to this murder."

"An alibi? I wasn't trying to make an alibi," Peter saw a muscle at the back of Everett's jaw twitch spasmodically. Was that involuntary storm-signal evidence of anger—or anxiety?

"All right," the sheriff said non-committally. "Why did you go to the sheep herder's cabin?"

"I went because, like a good many of the Basques around here, he makes wine. I wanted to get a bottle to bring home—to celebrate. Max showed no consciousness of the irony in that last incongruous word.

"So that's how it was," Simpson repeated. "But mightn't it have been some other way?" The nasal drawl became almost sing-song.

"Mightn't it have been that you'd heard gossip about your wife and Mortimer, and come on a surprise visit to find out? Mightn't it have been that you came to the house, and when you didn't find your wife home, took your gun and went down to the lodge? Mightn't it have been that you found your wife and Mortimer there together, or maybe you found him alone and taxed him with it and then shot him?"

"Maybe Mrs. Everett came later, found the gun, and ran back to the house with it to put it away in its usual place, and made off with it. You're no fool, Mr. Everett. You were scared into running away at first. But you knew that would be as good as saying you done it, so you came back. I don't say that was it, just say it might have been—and I don't know as I'd feel too hard on you if it was."

"That's—Max half rose from his chair, then sank back. Again his eyes sought Aline's face in vain appeal.

Peter found himself mentally repeating the sheriff's words of a moment before. He had hoped for a dull-witted "chick" constable, but assuredly this man was no fool.

Suddenly the sheriff whirled and turned upon Peter the sharp directness of his narrow, tracing eyes.

"I'm ready for you now, young feller," he snapped. "Where do you come in on this?"

"I don't come into it at all," Peter said hastily. Though he had questioned many sheriffs, Peter had never before the object of their questioning. This turning of the tables was somewhat disconcerting. "I'm a newspaper reporter."

"Well, you must be a good one, if you always get this quick on the job," the sheriff mused. "Got any identification papers on you?"

"I'm on my vacation. Do you think I travel around with a passport?" Peter began indignantly. Who did this fellow think he was, to doubt the word of Peter Piper of the Herald?

Then his tightened lips relaxed in a grin. After all, the man didn't know him from Adam, and Peter, the skeptical questioner, was only getting some of his own medicine.

125,000 Fans To See Notre Dame Battle Army This Afternoon; Strib Rescued From Florida Lake When Glider Turns Turtle; Wade To Scout Washington State, Tide's Rose Bowl Foe, Today

Receipt of the news last week-end that the Florida football team had been laid off from practice and that their coach had gone to Chicago to witness the Notre Dame-Northwestern game, inspired this department to attempt a few snarl-a-leck remarks about Florida's nonchalance on the eve of their struggle with Georgia Tech.

It was here suggested that Florida must have reached a peak in training, that the Tech game was as good as in the bag, and that the Yellow Jackets would just have to go out and fight to hold the score down to 50 to 0.

It was here perly concluded that Florida was "pointing for Tennessee," otherwise their coach would not have given them a rest and omitted serious preparation for Tech's attack.

Those flippant remarks were served steaming hot right here in this corner when Florida swamped Tech 55 to 7 without working up undue perspiration.

My second guess now is that Charlie Bachman MUST HAVE KNOWN SOMETHING.

NEW SCHOOL OF THOUGHT.

Perhaps working against enemy plays is all wrong anyhow. It may be learned some day that scrimmaging against the prospective formations of the coming foe is a waste of time.

Who can tell but what the Florida system of taking a good, long rest before a game is not the better plan?

Certainly the Yellow Jackets could have not learned less about where those Florida passes were going to land if they had spent each afternoon last week in the movies. And likewise Florida could not possibly have known so accurately where the Tech passes were going to fly if they had drilled 18 hours a day.

Maybe Cousin Charlie has the right idea after all. It certainly worked in the case of our Yellow Jackets.

COMMENT ON THE CHAMPIONS.

The Southern conference race is concluded to all practical purposes. Alabama and Tulane are undefeated and untied by conference opponents. Alabama has beaten eight conference teams, Tulane five. That gives each a percentage of 1.000. Hence Tulane technically is tied for the championship.

Suppose, however, that Alabama and Tulane each had lost one game. Then Alabama's percentage would be 7-1-.875, Tulane's 4-1-.800. So it must be evident that it is eminently fair to give the edge in the championship debate (if any) to the team having played most conference games and therefore taken most chances.

Alabama's performance in defeating her eight opponents is much more impressive than Tulane's in defeating her five. Tulane played but one conference team of any strength at all. That was Georgia. Yet Georgia has no better than an even break in the conference. Alabama played four opponents who have won more conference games than they have lost.

Alabama's conference opponents have played .511 football.

Tulane's conference opponents have played .334 football.

Therefore Alabama's campaign has been the more impressive.

But perhaps the invitation to play in the Rose Bowl as the representative eleven from the south answers the question of intra-sectional superiority better than any figures I might bring up.

COMPARATIVE SCORES DO NOT WORK.

Tulane's favorite "comparative score" method of figuring relative strength—a scheme that was found to be the bunk the year that the first football game was played in America—reveals interesting variations.

Tulane defeated Georgia 25 to 0; Alabama defeated Georgia 13 to 0, giving Tulane a margin in points of 12. However, Alabama defeated L. S. U. 33 to 0 and Tulane defeated L. S. U. 12 to 7, which gives Alabama a margin of 28.

There must be something wrong with the system; it works out in Alabama's favor.

GOSSIP.

Of course it is a tough break that the Tulane boys were not given more opportunities to show their wares against strong teams. It is not their fault. Perhaps they are just as good or better than Alabama. But one only can go by the records of the season.

Alabama people say that Tulane was offered three dates for a football game this year but Tulane officials declined, saying their team did not have the reserve strength necessary to play a team like Alabama.

I do not know whether this is true or not. But it shows how schedule making sometimes can serve to make it easy for a football team.

ALABAMA CLAIMS NOTHING.

A reporter asked Wallace Wade, he night after the Georgia game if he would claim the championship for his team. He replied:

"Absolutely not. We are not claiming anything, except that we have had a successful season and hope to play our best in the Rose Bowl should we be invited. If anybody thinks we have earned a championship, we will bow gracefully; if not, we are satisfied anyhow with having come through undefeated against teams that in years past have beaten us."

TWO SIDES, OF COURSE.

Well, nobody has asked me as a committee of one to award any championship and far be it from me to speak out of turn.

The above discussion is a sample of what the conversation after the Thanksgiving game in Birmingham wherever fans gathered.

Perhaps Tulane supporters coming back from the Baton Rouge game.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Rough Riders from Notre Dame, riding the tide of 17 straight conquests, tomorrow will attempt to tame the unbeaten Army mule before perhaps the largest assemblage to witness a football game in America.

One hundred and twenty-five thousand spectators, an even eighth of a million rabid football fans and 2,000 more than the record crowd established at the Notre Dame-University of Southern California game a year ago, were expected to crowd into Chicago's gigantic lake front stadium, Soldier field, to witness the "battle between the two undefeated teams."

It will be the seventeenth gridiron battle in 18 years between the two rivals, but more than football tradition rested behind it. The victor will remain in the waning struggle for mythical championship honors for 1930; the loser will experience the first blot of the campaign on its record and join the ranks of the defeated.

As the zero hour for the struggle approached, both teams studied the weather man's bulletins. The Army hoping for almost any kind of weather except a perfect football day and Notre Dame hoping for at least a hard frost.

FREEZING WEATHER.
The last prediction of the day, however, promised a perfect football day. The weather man has it right and the field is soft and uncertain. The cadets will beat us tomorrow, Rockne said tonight. "Such a condition would give them a big break while handicapping our light but speedy backfield. The Notre Dame backs need a firm turf to get away and to block effectively. It will be a tough fight under any conditions."

The Army has a great ball club, powerful and smart. Added to that is the fact that the Army has had practically two weeks of rest while we have been grinding away the shelling we received from Northwestern a week ago.

CADETS STEAMED UP.
Major Rockne, coach of the Cadets, said he knew the Rockne Rough Riders were the favorites, and that their record entitled them to that respect, but added that the Cadets were still steamed up to give them the battle of the year.

"We're going into the game to win," said Rockne. "The boys are in great spirits." Both teams went through spirited final workouts today. Down at South Bend, Rockne drilled his squad in doors on signals, blocking, passing and kicking. All the regulars reported they were in good physical condition and ready to go.

The Cadets went through a secret drill on Soldier field, brushing up on the game's fundamentals.

Coach Rockne cautioned he would send his regular line against the Cadets with the second-string backfield starting. Major Sasse had his most powerful lineup ready for the opening whistle.

Mickey Walker Kayoes Christner

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—(AP)—After 35 seconds of furious boxing Mickey Walker landed a left hook to the chin which sent K. O. Christner, Akron, Ohio, rubber man, bounding through the ropes for a technical knockout. It was Walker's second invasion of the heavyweight ranks.

Christner was on the defense from the opening bell. He shook off one left to his chin after a count of three, only to walk into one which landed him in the laps of the spectators. He rolled over the ropes and then fell to the floor.

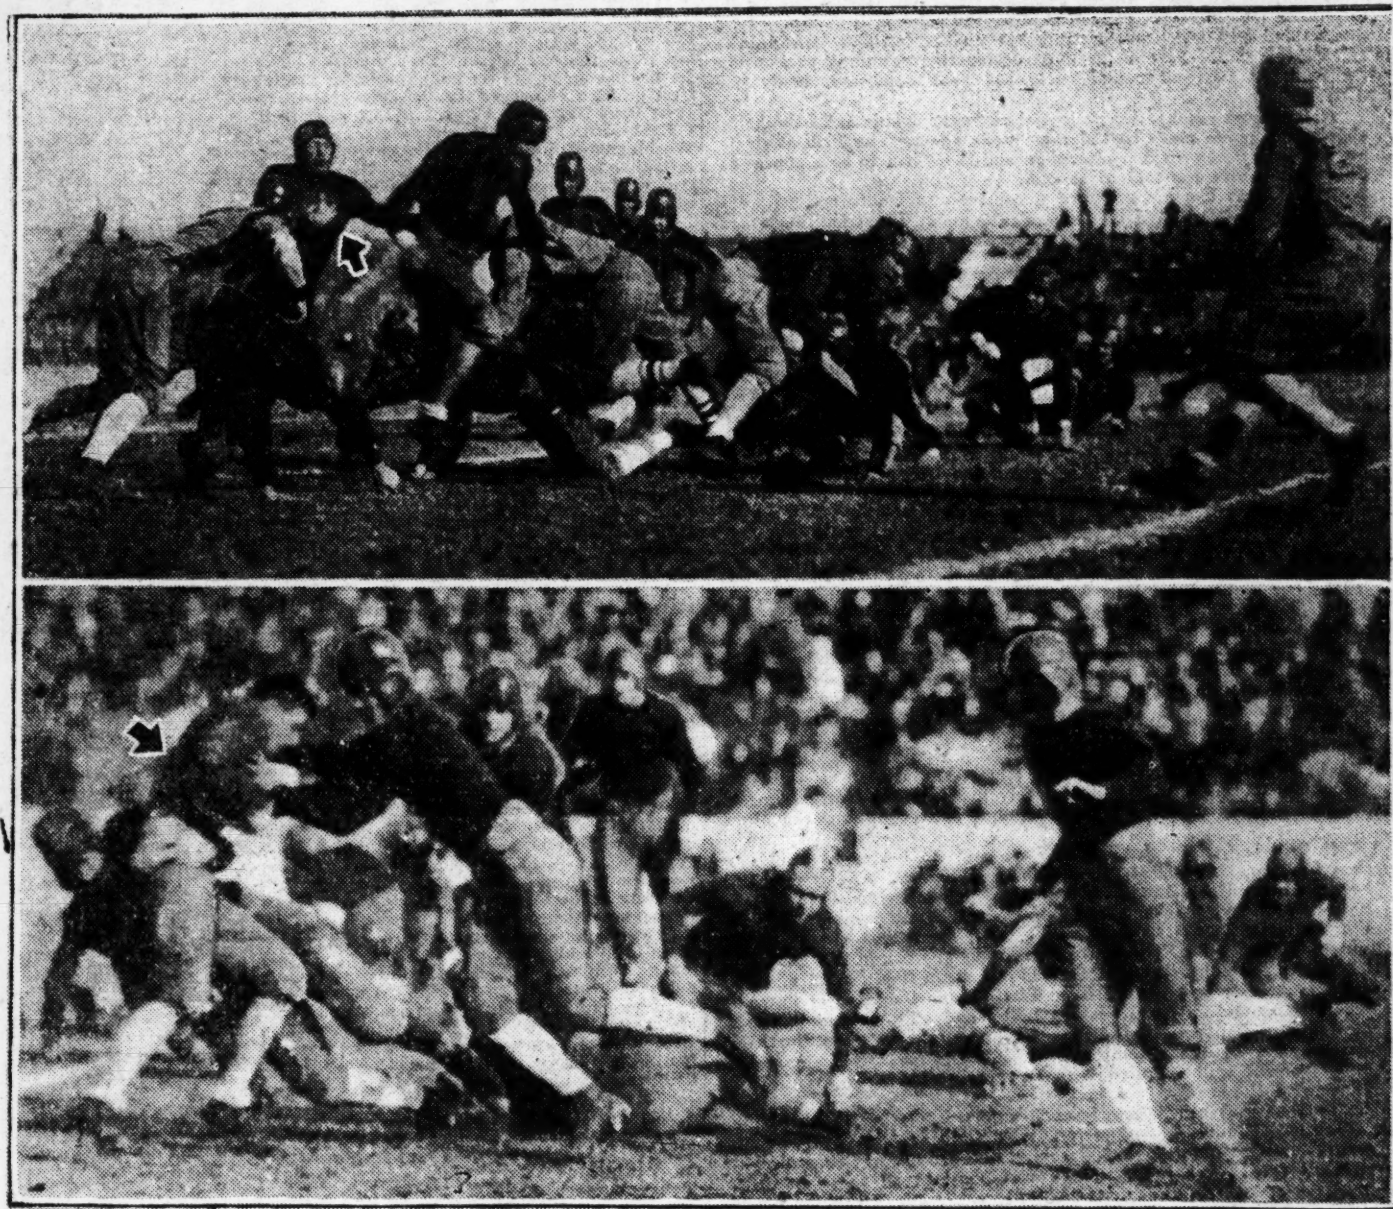

The slim crowd of spectators in the Coliseum swarmed about the ring, howling and yelling "Take it!" at the sudden ending of the fight. While Christner sat in his corner, Jack Kearns, manager of Walker, lost no time in mollifying the middleweight champion's gloves off his hands, and hustling him out of the ring.

Members of the state athletic commission, sitting at the light, refused to comment on the sudden termination of the fight, although they were obviously unsettled.

NICHOLS WINS.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Hugh Nichols, 172, Mexico, Texas, recognized in some states as the light-heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, won a match from Francisco Aguayo, 173, billed as Mexican champion, when Aguayo fell from the ring, was injured and unable to continue.

STIRB RESCUED IN LAKE SPILL

W. L. Tries Hand at Gliding and Winds Up in Water.

ORLANDO, Fla., Nov. 28.—(AP)—W. L. Stribling, the boxer, was drowned with cold water here today, but not by his seconds.

It happened after W. L. arrived in his airplane from Miami with his father and his wife. Sighting a glider floating on the surface of a lake near the airport, Stribling asked permission to fly it. He said he had never flown one.

He was invited to take the controls by airport officials and was pulled into the air by a high-powered motorboat. Stribling flew the motorless machine around but it was while landing the craft on the lake that things started.

W. L. was headed for a beautiful landing, airport officials said, but at the moment the pontoons struck the water a sharp puff of wind upset the glider and W. L. went into the lake, clothes, parachute and all. Weighted down by the chute, he disappeared from sight.

The motorboat which had pulled the glider into the air went into action as rescuer and the boat's pilot pulled Stribling from the water with considerable difficulty.

The boxer was resting at his hotel tonight. His physician reported that he had suffered severe chills but otherwise was little the worse for his ducking.

Three Bulldogs On Star Eleven

Five teams are represented on the 1930 United Press All-Southern conference football team, representing a consensus of 19 coaches in the 23-team conference.

The first and second team selections:

| FIRST TEAM | Pos. | SECOND TEAM |
|---------------------|----------------|-------------------|
| Darrynville, Tulane | End | Smith, Vanderbilt |
| Clayton, Ala. | Guard | Waters, Tech |
| Clayton, Ala. | Center | Thayer, Tenn. |
| Clayton, Ala. | Quarterback | Fouquier, Ky. |
| Clayton, Ala. | Fullback | Lipson, M.C. |
| Dodd, Tenn. | Linebacker | Dowman, Ga. |
| Clayton, Ala. | Defensive back | Bethes, Fla. |
| Clayton, Ala. | Offensive back | Clayton, Ala. |

The participating coaches were asked to name a first and second team. High votes for first team were considered first, but in case of ties second team votes were counted in deciding the position. No double ties appeared.

CRICKETER DIES.

MANCHESTER, England, Nov. 27.—(AP)—J. T. Tyldesley, 57, the famous Lancashire cricketer, died suddenly today. He played for England in 31 test matches, most of them against Australia.

Southern Grids Saw Odd Sights Thursday

Florida and Auburn Overcame Jinxes of Long Standing; Drop Kick Returned to Favor.

By Ralph McGill.

Thursday afternoon fairly bristled with unique features as the football players of the south went about their daily chores.

The south saw odd limitations broken by Florida and Auburn as they scored victories over Georgia Tech and South Carolina, respectively. Thursday witnessed the return of the drop-kick as a winning play on the field at Knoxville. It saw Alabama win the conference title and its third invitation to the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena. It offered the spectacle of a winning coach resigning at Clemson. And finally it saw the greatest display of punting pyrotechnics of the year and perhaps of all time in the Georgia-Alabama game at Birmingham.

It was quite an afternoon, and probably no Thanksgiving Day ever before offered such bizarre features.

Florida had not won a game from Georgia Tech in seven years of trying; eight if the old Florida state college team be counted. The "Gators" won, 35 to 7, from Georgia Tech in what was one of the worst defeats ever suffered by the Jacket eleven. Which was getting even with extra measure.

Auburn's defeat of South Carolina was the first victory scored by the Tigers over a Southern conference opponent since the Seawee victory in 1926. Auburn's best chance had been thought to be the Mississippi Azule game of two weeks ago. It was lost, 7 to 6.

This was taken to mean that Auburn would go through without a victory despite the improvement in the Tiger eleven this year under the new Notre Dame coaching regime, headed by the Mississippi Azule game of two weeks ago. It was lost, 7 to 6.

It was taken to mean that Auburn would go through without a victory despite the improvement in the Tiger eleven this year under the new Notre Dame coaching regime, headed by the Mississippi Azule game of two weeks ago. It was lost, 7 to 6.

Not since the goal posts were moved back 10 yards behind the line has the drop-kick been used with any success as a winning play. That is, not until Thursday.

Kentucky and Tennessee, having played six games in the past two years, met at Knoxville. Tennessee was still unable to score a touchdown despite the wizardry of Bobby Dodd. The game was a 14-14 tie.

Alabama, undefeated and untied, was selected to represent the south and the east in the Rose Bowl game. No other southern team has been so honored. Wallace Wade has an excellent chance to establish the greatest Rose Bowl record of any coach in the south.

YOUNG JACKETS PLAY BULLPUPS

Game Will Serve as Entree to Varsity Clash Next Week.

Georgia Tech's freshman football team, undefeated this season, entrained Friday night shortly after 6 o'clock for Athens, where it will meet the Georgia freshmen Saturday afternoon in the annual game between the two elevens.

The game holds more than ordinary interest this season, as both teams have good records, and will serve as an entree for the varsity game between the two rivals one week from today.

The Georgia Tech freshmen have defeated Monroe A. & M., the Furman freshmen and the freshmen from Florida. Despite the fact that several men were ineligible in the Florida game two weeks ago, the Jacket yearlings scored their most impressive victory.

Led by Wink Davis, an Atlanta boy, the Jacket backs have shown a defensive and offensive ability which has delighted Tech partisans. The coaching of Kenneth Thrash, star lineman in 1928, is evident in the line, and the general supervision of Coach Tech will meet here Saturday in their annual game with the Jackets.

Many of the freshmen who play at Athens this afternoon will be seen on the Yellow Jacket varsity next spring when spring practice begins.

The game, which is the concluding one of the season for both teams, will begin at 2 o'clock in the stadium at Athens. It was scheduled for Atlanta for a time as a charity tilt, but city officials decided against it and it was re-scheduled for Athens.

The Jacket freshmen will remain in Athens overnight, returning to Atlanta Sunday morning.

Bullpups Ready For Baby Jackets.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 28.—Freshmen teams of Georgia and Georgia Tech will meet here Saturday in their annual clash. Tech's Baby Jackets will arrive from Atlanta early Saturday morning. The game will begin at 2 o'clock p. m. eastern time, on Sanford Stadium field.

The Baby Jackets are favored to win tomorrow, having an undefeated team so far this fall, while the Georgia freshmen have lost three of the four games played so far. Georgia's Bullpups lost to Auburn and the Tech Yearlings put a sound thrashing on the boys from the plains of Alabama.

The Georgia lineup for tomorrow is: Left end, Parks; tackle, Eckoff; guard, Cooper; center, Parkinson; right guard, Simmons; tackle, McCrimmon; end, Bowers; quarterback, Blattnier; left half, Cauthen; right half, Howard; fullback, Wolfson. Officials: Buck Chever (Georgia), referee; Pup Phillips (Tech), umpire.

CRIMSON COACH FINALLY ADMITS TEAM IS GOOD

Beat Georgia Without Usual Breaks; Rose Bowl Is Next Stop.

By Ed Danforth.

Just as the story books would have had it, Wallace Wade's last football team at the University of Alabama completed its campaign for the Southern conference championship by defeating Georgia, 13 to 0, in a thrilling Thanksgiving Day game, and has accepted the invitation to play Washington State in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena New Year's Day.

Coach Wade today is in Philadelphia where he will scout Washington State in the game against Villanova. Washington State scouts saw the Tide engulf Georgia and took notes. The stage managers are building the sets for the last act of the spectacular gridiron production.

And after the Rose Bowl game, Coach Wade will leave Tuscaloosa and go to Durham, N. C., to assume charge of the gridiron destinies of Duke University. What a farewell, gentlemen, Wade has been!

"We were lucky to come through this year undefeated," Coach Wade told the writer on the train leaving Birmingham after the game. "Any team must be lucky to come through a hard schedule like this. All teams that ever have escaped defeat for a season have been uniformly lucky. I do not mean to use the term luck in the general sense but as referring to the actual breaks of the game."

FORTUNE SMILED.
"I say we were fortunate because in every game through Louisiana State, the breaks came our way. Our punts bounced forward, not backward. When we kicked for the sidelines, our punts bounced out of bounds close to the goal. When our forward passes were intercepted, there were no long runbacks. We fumbled but recovered, and we rarely fumbled away a touchdown. All those breaks helped us in early games and made it hard on our opponents."

"However, I will say that in the game against Georgia we had no special luck. Our punts bounced the wrong way and never rolled out of bounds at the right time. We fumbled away one touchdown and, instead of making first downs by inches, we were short by the same margins. The little things were against us. That is why I am so proud of the way our team managed to win in spite of all that. It shows they are good."

Georgia perhaps was good football as it did in October, when victories were coming every Saturday. The backfield, with viciousness and speed and tact, was a hard charge and hard on defense. The difference probably was that the offensive line, as ever, did not play as strong as ever. It was just a strong Alabama line. This reporter, having seen Georgia at her best, believes that the Bulldogs performed a gridiron miracle, and played up to their top form.

THIN MARGIN.
What a thin margin between defeat and victory! One step farther and he caught the forward pass in the fourth quarter and Spurgeon Chandler might have won that game for Georgia.

Georgia made most of her yardage on running plays right over Captain "Foots" Clement. The big Tide captain was hurt early in the game by the furious play of the Bulldog linemen, and was reeling in his tracks. He line relieved him later, and he came back into the game. This move Coach Wade takes upon himself as a grievous mistake. He misjudged the recuperative powers of the boy.

"If we had lost that game I could have blamed nobody but myself," Coach Wade said.

GRID MASTERPIECE.
It was a marvelously well-played game. Both teams were coached shrewdly. The plays were heads-up football. The Tide captain was hurt early in the game by the furious play of the Bulldog linemen, and was reeling in his tracks. He line relieved him later, and he came back into the game. This move Coach Wade takes upon himself as a grievous mistake. He misjudged the recuperative powers of the boy.

Alabama covered her punts better than Georgia and prevented runbacks. On the other hand, Alabama blocked out the Georgia ends and linemen long enough to give the Tide a better start. A good start, Campbell played many of the punts more cautiously than necessary, or his gains might have been greater.

Alabama's greatness was shown in the fact that, in three chances to score, two were cashed in upon with precision and certainty. Georgia had one good chance and could not make it. Alabama must be given credit for making a courageous stand on the 25-yard line just after that killing 41-yard pass was completed on them. The stand was made with three substitute linemen in action, too.

SUBS DELIVERED.
Oddly enough, Coach Wade sent in Sanford and Smith to strengthen his line while the Tide later was sent back after that pass. Sanford stopped the first two plays and Smith the third. It is good strategy to run a play at a substitute player's expense if he takes his position. The Alabama substitutes made good in the pinch.

Probably the most remarkable feature of Georgia's general play is the fact that it was forced by Alabama to carry the load from the middle of the first quarter to the finish and did just that. The boys, presumably worn by a hard campaign and still smarting from a defeat by Tulane, had the will to drive their legs on and clear down into the fourth period and make their most daring bid for a touchdown just before the game ended. Their all around play was.

Tech High Plays Riverside for Right To Meet Madison in G. I. A. A.

SURVIVOR GETS CHANCE TO PLAY FOR STATE TITLE

Savannah Faces G. M. C. December 6 in Southern Division Play-Off.

By Roy White.

Tech High and Riverside Military Academy, of Gainesville, Ga., will play for the right to meet Madison Aggies for the northern division title of the G. I. A. A., and the winner of the game with Madison will meet the winner of the Savannah-M. C. game in the southern division for the state championship.

This announcement was made Friday afternoon by Frank Anderson, director of athletics at Oglethorpe University and arbiter for the G. I. A. A. Savannah and G. M. C. were selected without question.

Madison, with six victories and one defeat, has the outstanding record in the northern division with 15-1-1 record. Tech High, with 12-1-1 record, is second. Tech High's record is 12-1-1. Tech High's record is 12-1-1.

After spending more than four hours studying the northern division records, I have given Tech High and Riverside first preference, aside from Madison. A careful check over the records reveals that neither team has an outstanding record.

"I then talked over long distance with S. K. Tanner, of Lanier High, secretary and treasurer of the G. I. A. A., who stated that the season's records were to be compared with special emphasis given to games played with G. I. A. A. teams. I then used to make a comparison of the two teams on a basis of scores made against one team played in common. Comparative records show that Tech High is a weak team to be the best in the country.

"After due consideration, my judgment tells me that Tech High and Riverside should meet at a time and place acceptable to both parties, and the winner shall play Madison Aggies for the northern division title. The winner of that game will meet the winner of the Savannah-M. C. game for the state championship," he added.

It was learned from authorities at Savannah Friday that G. M. C. and Tech High have agreed to play for southern division honors in Savannah Saturday afternoon, December 6.

W. O. Cheney, principal of Tech High, stated Friday night that the Smithies are willing to play Riverside at a suitable place and time. He suggested that Friday, December 5, on the eve of the Tech-Green game would be an opportune time.

In ten games this year Riverside won five, tied one and lost four, having a record of three wins, one tie and two defeats in the G. I. A. A. Tech High has five victories, two ties and two defeats. Tech High have one win, two ties and one loss with G. I. A. A. teams.

Riverside stopped Greenbrier (W. Va.) after a two-year winning streak, and Tech High stopped Tusculooza, Ala., after a five and one-half year winning streak.

The complete records of the two teams follow:

Riverside 13; Chickasaw, Ala. 9; Riverside 6; Booneville, Ark. 2; Riverside 4; Richmond Academy 12; Riverside 4; Georgia Tech 12; Riverside 6; G. M. C. 8; Riverside 14; Greenbrier (W. Va.) 12; Riverside 6; Army 12; Riverside 47; Davidson 0; Riverside 0; Madison Aggies 12; Riverside 30; Monroe Aggies 48.

Tech High 12; Ensey, Ala. 0; Tech High 28; University School 0; Tech High 28; Tusculooza, Ala. 0; Tech High 0; Charlotte 0; Tech High 15; Boys' High 0; Tech High 15; Alameda 0; Tech High 14; Lanier High 0; Tech High 12; opponents 65.

Taylor Is Beaten By Fidel La Barba

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Nov. 28.—Fidel La Barba, California featherweight, won the decision over Bud Taylor, veteran Terre Haute (Ind.) boxer, in a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

La Barba, following his announced plan of attack to the body, was guilty of an unusual display of technique which may have been unintentional, because of his trying to stay in close.

Taylor did some clinching on his own behalf and this combination gave the fans plenty to boo about. And boo they did, often, loud and long. The United Press correspondent, who reported La Barba won six rounds, Three even, Taylor was credited with having won but one, the seventh.

Taylor seemed content to allow La

Lines by Fincher

By Bill Fincher, Georgia Tech Line Coach.

What happened Thanksgiving Day? It has taken 48 hours to realize that everything happened. Every kind of football that ever was played in a game was played on Georgia Tech field—good, bad and indifferent. None of the customers can complain of the variety offered.

The question going the rounds again yesterday was "What was the matter with Tech?" and so, far into the night. The answer is that the boys were tired. Everybody had a hand in contributing to the charity party we put on for Florida. Except Vance Maree, he played well all the way. Every one of our boys who got into the game made some good plays, every one of them made at least one bad play, so all had a hand in the disaster.

My guess is that Tech gained more ground than any team has against Florida this year. For a while the game looked like one of these whiz-bang games. Neither side could stop the other.

On some plays we had good blocking and on others none at all. Every Florida play that went for a touchdown was stopped at other times. This meant that we were tackling well sometimes, badly at others.

Speer, Farmer, Neblett and Hart played a lot of good football and Cherry was very good at times. There were stars in the game but except for Maree they were all on the other side.

James at guard was next to Maree as the best lineman on the field. Proctor was close at his heels. Steele, while playing good ball all the way, did not seem to be at his best.

Red Bethea could not be called a Galloping Ghost for he was very tangible. Ask some of our boys he ran over. Time and again he simply outfooted our defensive backs and got away for touchdowns.

Bethea was more scintillating from the spectators' standpoint but I thought Dorsett played the best game of any Florida back with Ed Sauls but little behind him.

Florida showed just a good football team. We generously helped them to their scores almost as much as they helped themselves. The difference in first downs and yardage between our team and theirs shows how closely in some respects the teams were matched. But it was the burst of speed that Florida backs always had in the pinch that gave them such a big victory.

THE SPORTLIGHT

THE BOYS ARE READY.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Army and Notre Dame, both unbeaten to the hour of their meeting, are ready. And from 10,000 to 125,000 football fans will see Knute Rockne and his South Bend clyde go out after a ninth straight victory before starting for Los Angeles and Southern California on Monday.

Just a year ago the Army started the football world by out-playing an unbeaten Notre Dame team the greater part of the distance, to lose on a 97-yard run by Jack Elder after the nimble interception of an Army forward pass.

The Army today, generally rated with only a minor chance, expects to startle one of the greatest football crowds of all time by giving Rockne's dashing raiders an even battle, leaving the final results to the fortunes of war or the break of the game.

Major Ralph Sasse and his coaching staff believe that a fighting, hard charging Army line will rock back a somewhat wary Notre Dame attack just as it did a year ago and give such high-class backs as Bowman, Kilday, Stecker, Fields and Herb a chance to run or pass their way to a winning touchdown.

Notre Dame has been traveling in a hurry since October 4. And down the stretch it lost Joe Savoldi, its most destructive pounding back, while Martin Brill, its best all-around back, has been somewhat badly battered.

Notre Dame reached its peak against Pennsylvania and I doubt that it can come close to the same peak again. The Brill affair keyed Notre Dame up after that and there had to be a subsequent drop, plus the loss of Savoldi.

So if the Army can put an alert, deceptive attack into action in this game, it won't be far from an even affair under the conditions mentioned. Certainly no long odds on Notre Dame are justified now.

CROWD AND INTEREST.

FOOTBALL fans have been pouring into Chicago for two days. The crowd will not only break a season's record, but the general interest over a wide area is sharper than any other game so far has known.

Most of the 100,000 or more will be rooting for Notre Dame for two reasons. One is the hip-hip-hurrah over the chance for a record-breaking season. The other is the sympathy of the west against an eastern invader, although the Army team is made up from every sector of the map and is in no sense sectional.

The fact that both teams have remained unbeaten adds further excitement to the contest, although the majority give the Army no chance to win.

THE ARMY'S CHANCE.

YET the Army has a chance and a fair one. It must first come in out-charging a Notre Dame line, which is no easy matter. But the Army has a fine line, one of the best, and it will be a fresh line thrown against weary troops. This can make a terrific difference.

Big Price should be the best tackle on the field and he will have a lot of support. This will be one of the strongest defensive lines Notre Dame has faced in a year, possibly the strongest, for there is strength and experience, power and speed, from end to end.

The Army to win must first impose its will over the Notre Dame line. When this happens you can stop almost any attack. If the Army can't accomplish this, it will almost surely lose, for the Notre Dame attack is faster, more diversified and combines better running and blocking.

If Brill is in fair shape, there are still no better backfields than Carideo, Brill, Schwartz, Mullins and Hanley. And it might be remembered that the Army attack is no lumbering affair with Bowman, Kilday, Stecker, Fields, Herb and others around.

Bowman is a high-class quarterback, fast, smart and always on top of the job. There will be two star quarterbacks at work in this game, two of the best in the country. And that should mean few tactical mistakes.

The Army's best chance is to catch Notre Dame worn down from the pounding Northwestern battle and still looking in the direction of Southern California. To be caught between Northwestern and Southern California is no oasis for any team and only a squad well supplied with reserves would have even the ghost of a show.

Notre Dame has heard reports and rumors from the west coast that many Southern California supporters are looking for an overwhelming western triumph, something approaching the Southern California-Pittsburgh battle of a year ago. When you consider all these turns and twists, it is, of course, ridiculous to figure the Army without a chance, or even a pretty fair chance.

Bulldogs Start Work For Game With Tech

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 28.—Clad in nondescript jerseys, old football pants and shoes none the better for weeks of battering in scrimmages, the Georgia Bulldogs began their preparations for meeting the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets next Saturday with a few minutes of running signals on old Sanford field this afternoon.

The Georgia squad returned from Birmingham early this morning, accompanied on the return trip by the Red and Black band and several hundred Georgia fans who had made the journey to Stastown for the game. They were greeted by a few loyal supporters who braved the biting cold of the early morning.

The session today was limited to 20 minutes of signal running, to limber up stiff muscles and get the squad into the swing of things for their meeting with the Jackets December 6. The boys ran briskly up and down the practice field that has been built for them between old Sanford field and the new stadium.

Jack "The Ripper" Roberts and Jimmy Stoinoff, the two fullbacks who performed against Tech, are on the injured list. Roberts has a rib that has been troubling. Stoinoff has a broken nose to carry around with him. Both fullbacks, however, are expected to play against Tech.

Several others of the Georgia squad suffered bruises in the "Bama game" but outside of the two fullbacks none are seriously hurt.

The Red Devil-Freshman team which will run Georgia Tech plays for the benefit of the varsity will be ready to give their version of the Jackets' plays tomorrow. Red Devil Coach Bennie Rothstein, Johnny Broadnax and Chick Shiver, gave the "Tech" team their plays this afternoon.

Another light scrimmage will follow Saturday afternoon and the Bulldogs will take a day off Sunday to rest up for the hard work that will follow next week and which will culminate in their final game of the season in Atlanta Saturday week.

Georgia played with their great guard, "Red" Leathers, on the bench. Maddox, Patterson and Bennett carried 100 yards in the middle of the line, and performed nobly.

Alabama Selected For Rose Bowl Game.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—(P)—Alabama's undefeated Crimson Tide was selected today to oppose Washington State College, Pacific Coast conference champion, in the annual east-west gridiron classic at the Pasadena Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

Earl Foster, graduate manager of Washington State, extended the invitation and President George H. Denny, of Alabama, announced at Tusculooza that it would be accepted.

It will be the third visit of the Crimson Tide to the Pacific coast for the annual Tournament of Roses game pitting east against west.

Alabama defeated the University of Washington 21 to 19 in 1929 and a 7-to-7 tie was played with Stanford in 1927.

Washington State was invited several days ago to represent the west. The Cougars awaited the outcome of Alabama's game with Georgia yesterday before extending the formal invitation.

Rose Bowl Bid Is Formally Accepted.

TUSCULOOSA, Ala., Nov. 28.—(P)—Formal acceptance of the invitation to play Washington State in Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Cal., January 1, was made today by Dr. George H. Denny, president of the University of Alabama.

It was the third time Dr. Denny had accepted such an invitation for Alabama's Crimson Tide.

The invitation received by telegram read:

"On behalf of the Pasadena Rose Bowl Association and State College of Washington, I extend an official invitation to your football team to represent the east and south in the annual east-west football game at the Rose Bowl New Year's Day. We sincerely request your acceptance."

The invitation was signed by Earl V. Foster, graduate manager of athletics of Washington State College.

Dr. Denny's wire of acceptance read:

"I accept, in behalf of University of Alabama, the invitation extended by the Rose Bowl Association and Washington State College for Alabama football team to play in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, California, January 1, 1931."

Additional word is added to this Rose Bowl game since Wallace Wade, a guard on the Brown team that lost to Alabama in 1929, is leading an unbeaten squad against a Washington State eleven in the 14th renewal.

Alabama has gone through its season's schedule without defeat, winning nine games, eight of which were against conference teams. The strength of the Tusculooza eleven was proven by the manner in which the Wademen met and downed Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Kentucky and Florida—four of the toughest squads in the south—on successive Saturdays.

Alabama's season record follows: 43, Howard; 0, 14, Mississippi; 0, 25, Sewanee; 0, 16, Tennessee; 0, 12, Vanderbilt; 7, 10, Kentucky; 0, 20, Florida; 0, 23, Louisiana State; 0, 13, Georgia, 0.

OHIO IS HOST.

INTERSECTIONAL GAMES TO MARK LAYOUT TODAY

East Has Slight Chance of Beating Strong Western Teams.

By Alan Gould.

Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(P)—A rough and rugged battle of tactics, John J. Blizard and Herman H. Zerk, have decided to participate in the finishing flourish of the college football season. They may be the deciding factors, doing as much damage as the opposition in the few big games to be played in the frigid zone tomorrow.

Notre Dame and Army, the headline matchup of the day at Soldier field, Chicago, have had enough experience with handling frozen footballs on icy surfaces to make the best of conditions along the lake front. They battled last year at the Yankee stadium in a temperature of 15 degrees above zero, the Irish romping to a one-touchdown victory on Jack Elder's 58-yard yard with an intercepted pass.

If approximately 80,000 New Yorkers were sufficiently courageous then to brave the elements, packing the Yankee stadium, the assumption may be that the severe weather in the west will not keep many of the expected 125,000 customers from Soldier field tomorrow. It will be a new record if that many turn out.

The Notre Dame-Army affair, annually one of the most colorful games on the college list, shares the intersectional spotlight Saturday with two widely separated skirmishes. The new champions of the Pacific coast, the University of Washington, will meet the old champions of the Pacific coast, the University of California, at Berkeley, Calif., at 10 o'clock.

These three contests dominate the day's activity. Three other intersectional games involve Iowa State and Washington, Oregon State and Oregon, and Michigan and Michigan State.

Michigan State, however, will play at Philadelphia, Pa., in addition to which the state included in the annual game is the Holy Cross-Boston College game at Fenway park, Boston, and Southern Methodist-Texas Christian at Dallas.

The east has two chances to break the spell of last western team supremacy, sustained pretty decisively for the past few years by Stanford, Oregon State, California and St. Mary's, but there is not much more than an outside chance of anything being done about it tomorrow.

Dartmouth, unbeaten and tied only by Yale, is expected to have a better chance against Stanford than the four-time beaten Villanova eleven against Washington State's Congress College.

College football is such, however, that the reverse may be the case by the time the points are totaled up tomorrow.

Cotton Letters

FENNER & BEANE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Cotton developed a bearish tendency Friday despite good news and small tenders selling about $1 per bale lower and closing near bottom. There was certainly over what Congress may do. The increased appropriation which will be expected to ease it.

In approaching government crop estimates, full trade confidence and disappointing spinners' takings were sufficient to depress prices.

Interest in hedging was another factor.

All trade orders are reported to have been filled.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Successful downward jolts to wheat prices today ended with word that the week's North American breadstuff exports were the smallest since 1913, when the war broke. Other shocks came for a long time. Trade estimates generally figured that the week's exports would be

GOVERNMENT BROKERS

IS QUIET IN WEEK DROP $62,000,000

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(A)—Trading in the cotton futures market here was comparatively quiet during the past week. It was restricted to some extent, no doubt, by the holiday of Thursday, while the outstanding interest had previously been reduced by the payment of the December interest which was issued on Monday. The latter, amounting to about 45,000 bales, were less than expected, but their circulation caused a slight liquidation and switching into later months.

The December contracts were taken against a slight advance in price, the prevailing premiums, however, and it was reported that some of the large spot interest were stopping the cotton. Additional orders have been received and while they have also been promptly taken up at somewhat narrowing premiums, their circulation seemed to have rather an unsettling effect on the market. Recent developments in the grain situation are supposed to have operated in much the same way and the falling off in the volume of business has been attributed to their disclosure. We await further developments in that connection as well as a nearer view of the clearing acreage and general trade outlook.

There has been comparatively little conjecture as to the probable short crop of the season, which is scheduled for publication on December 8. The official authorities, however, the findings reported prior to November 14 suggested a slight increase in the government crop figures, but it has

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(A)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York federal reserve banks for the week ending November 26 were announced by the federal reserve board today as $2,122,000,000, representing a decrease of $82,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

The loans for the week ending November 27, 1929, were $3,450,000,000. The detailed distribution of the loans over the three weeks dealt with in the preceding week was:

For own account, latest week 1930, $1,288,000,000; last week 1930, $1,000,000; same week 1929, $851,000,000.

For account of out-of-town banks, latest week 1930, $380,000,000; last week 1930, $380,000,000; same week 1929, $455,000,000; same week 1929, $638,000,000.

For account of others, latest week 1930, $455,000,000; last week 1930, $455,000,000; same week 1929, $1,082,000,000.

STEEL MILL MOVES TO GIVE MORE WORK

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 28.—(A)—As an emergency ploy toward relieving unemployment, the Carnegie-Illinois Company will inaugurate the six-hour day in its mills at Brackenridge starting Monday. The move, company officials announced. The company has 32 mills but only 12 are in operation. Approximately 3000 men are at work in the mills at present and the new policy will mean an increase of about one-third in the total number employed.

traders here that there would be little change as compared with the No-number 1 forecast of 14,398,000 bales of 500 pounds gross. One of the local authorities in a report issued today corresponds upon replies from southern correspondents estimated the crop in exchange at 14,200,000.

According to the New York Cotton Exchange service the amount of American lint cotton now available or forwarding to the world's mills for file more hedge selling was reported here toward the end of the week. This was absorbed by covering and trade buying on a scale down, but the buyers showed little disposition to follow up the bulges and the decline carried prices fully a cent a pound below the high levels reached on the late October advance during today's trading.
